It's not for nothing that Kashmir is called paradise on Earth, and at this gorgeous property in Ladakh, this jannat can be yours.

Set at a height of about 11,000ft, the hotel has 82 rooms and suites, all with breathtaking views of the rugged mountains and deep valleys.

Open all through the year, it has lovely private balconies and gardens where you can bask in the sunlight, while warmed floors, central heating, double-glazed windows and a sauna make it the perfect winter hideout. Also wonderful is the in-house restaurant, Tusrabs, which serves up delicious local fare, such as timstuk (meat and noodle broth), yak cheese, momos and fresh apricot with cinnamon. Guests can enjoy a riverside picnic or a barbecue by a bonfire. And day trips to popular destinations such as Pangong Lake and the Hemis monastery can also be arranged.

You could experience it all! Just rush in your entry with the correct answer to this issue's Where Are You? competition before 1 January 2017.
